The world of investing is becoming more dynamic each day, offering greater opportunities, accompanied by increasingly complicated choices. Your financial organization stands beside you, helping you to manage the growing complexity of your long-term investments.

In the same way that you look to your financial organization for solutions that help you to make insightful investment decisions, your financial organization employs specialists and experts to help them keep pace with the fast-changing financial marketplace.

So, who is helping your financial organization manage the inner workings of your investment program? Who provides the foundation for efficient trade execution and processing, current analytical tools, and innovative technological advancement?

Our Supporting Role

Pershing works behind the scenes on behalf of your financial organization to support your investment success. We apply nearly 70 years of experience to the development of top-tier investment products and services, and continually enhance these programs to give you access to a portfolio of highly competitive tools through your financial organization. Our enterprising spirit pushes us to invent cutting-edge technology solutions that help your financial organization deliver a seamless investment experience, and foster your long-term success.

To harness the most advanced investment capabilities available, your financial organization may elect to use any number of brokerage-related services that we offer. Thanks to our advanced technological resources, we are able to provide everything from fast, precise trade execution and settlement to the accurate, timely preparation of your brokerage account information and statements.

In addition, we pride ourselves on enabling your financial organization to offer a broad spectrum of leading-edge solutions, including: Internet-, wireless-, and telephone-based investment channels; asset management accounts; retirement products; managed account programs; high-net-worth solutions; fee-based brokerage accounts; a no-transaction-fee mutual fund program; an annuity program, and more.

How Do You Benefit?

When your financial organization employs Pershing, you can count on:
